

Langtang Valley Trek

Trip Overview

Explore the high and wild of Langtang through the Langtang Valley Trek. The Langtang Valley trek will take you through lush vegetation, terraced farmlands, high Himalayan valleys, rhododendron forests, spectacular landscapes, and beautiful villages. This is the closest way from Kathmandu to discover the majestic Himalayas of Nepal. A blend of natural beauty, culture, and the mountains can be found in this trek. The intact cultural beauty is one of the aspects of this trek. Introduce yourself to the indigenous Tamang community. The likely trek is the Tamang Heritage Trail Trek, and the Gosaikunda Helambu Trek is also famous in this Langtang region.

Even though the place is near Kathmandu, signs of development can be seen very little. As there is no proper way of transportation, this makes hiking more adventurous among the hikers. Most of the journey includes the Langtang National Parks, which shelter numerous varieties of flora and fauna. If lucky, you may also get to see the Red panda, which is very rare. The culture and living styles are influenced by the Tibetan culture, as it is very close to the Tibetan border. The core reason for the resemblance to the Tibetan culture is that it used to be the prime trading route with Tibet. The journey also offers panoramic views of mountains, icy glaciers, snow-capped peaks, waterfalls, and bamboo forests. The main highlight of this trek is the rhododendron forest, which makes your trail beautiful and lively with its color.

The Langtang Valley gives you the perfect view of the Langtang range. The views of Langtang Lirung, Langtang Ri, Dorje Lakpa, Langshisa-Ri, and Langtang Himal are amazing and worth every hour of the hike. The trip begins with a drive from Kathmandu to Syabru Bensi. The next step on the journey is to visit Langtang village and explore the village. The next day, we will continue our trek to Kyanjin Gomba, which is known to be the oldest monastery in the Langtang region. You may also visit the Yak cheese factory and taste the local cheese. Then walk through a gentle slope, passing striking ridges through local villages. And end the trek by returning to the same route.

Make your through the valley of glaciers, and mountains and explore nature as well as cultural diversity via Langtang Valley Trek with Highland Eco Trek.
