

Hike of Kathmandu Valley

Trip Overview

There are plenty of things to do and see in Kathmandu valley. Among many of them, one is a ridge hike of Kathmandu valley. Hike over of the hills and get some splendid views of Kathmandu valley. The cultural diversity and the modern life of Kathmandu that you see inside the city are completely different if you ever visit around the places that are close to Kathmandu valley. Busy city, heavy traffic, pollution and all the other things that you may find displeasing is foreign if you try visiting the neighboring city.

Through a ridge hike in Kathmandu Valley, you can get close to the beautiful nature followed by cultural diversity and the lifestyles of the people living outside of Kathmandu Valley. In a way, you get to see the difference between the main city and the country area within a limited time. You will be hiking around the countryside of Kathmandu Valley and get to see Kathmandu in a different light. People raising farms, and working in the fields is not a common scene you would get to see while you are in a central part of Kathmandu. Therefore, you will get to see a completely different picture of Kathmandu.

The ridge hike of Kathmandu valley will commence after the sightseeing of world heritage sites of Kathmandu valley. Firstly, you will visit Kathmandu Durbar Square, Pashupatinath, Swaymbhunath and Boudhnath. After that, you will take a trip to Patan Durbar Square and Bhaktapur Durbar Square. You officially begin your hike from Sundarijal and the charming village of Chisapani. The next stop will be Nagarkot where you can get the magnificent view of sunrise and sunset, along with the amazing panoramic view of Annapurna range, Langtang range, Manaslu range, Gaurishankar range, and Ganesh Himal Range. Next on your journey is beautiful Dhulikhel and the final stop is Namobudhha. At Namobuddha, you will visit Thrangu Tashi Yangtse Monastery. The monastery is very popular and holds a history of its own. It lies on top of the hill and gives an absolutely stunning view of the valley.
