

Sunkoshi River Rafting

Trip Overview

Sunkoshi river rafting is one of the best adventure activities you can do in Nepal. The river is also the best place to take beautiful pictures of nature. It flows eastward through the valley formed between the Mahabharat range and the Himalayas. The river is also known as the “River of Gold.”.

Sunkoshi river rafting gives you the exciting thrill of an adventure. The river is also famous for being unpredictable. In someplace you may find the river to be quiet and serene and in other places the river to be wild and turbulent. Because of this, the Sunkoshi river rafting is more challenging. Thus, it may give a trip to remember for a lifetime.

Not only can you do rafting in Sunkoshi, but you can also do other water sports like kayaking. Thus, you can opt for both activities. Due to its uncertain flow of water, rafters, and kayakers may find it more challenging and adventurous too. At first, it has a small class rapid of II to III. But as you move to the middle, it will have III to IV rapids. These rapids are huge and have great flow and waves too. For this reason, Sunkoshi river rafting has become a more and more prominent activity for adventure and thrill seekers.

The Sunakoshi river rafting is full of beautiful scenery of mountains, valleys, rivers, and forests which shows you different Nepal. It is a complete package for adventure lovers as well as a nature lover. You get the best of both things from one single trip. The quaint and beautiful nature of Sunkoshi will give you a dose of the natural beauty of Nepal.
